Rotterdam

The City

World Port

The earliest records of Rotterdam's history date back to the construction of a dam across the little Rotte River in 1270. In 1340, Rotterdam received its town charter. When the New Waterway was completed in 1872, giving Rotterdam an open connection to the sea via the Maas, the city developed into a world-class port. Rotterdam is currently one of the largest ports in the world and the home base for many important industries, including the petrochemical, pharmaceutical, banking and insurance, and hi-tech and science industry. Rotterdam is currently the second-largest city in the Netherlands. The inhabitants of Rotterdam are straightforward, humorous and hospitable people for whom a deal is a deal

The Maas

The Maas River continues to define the face of Rotterdam today, as a main waterway and as an attraction in its own right with an increasing number of restaurants and other entertainment venues springing up along the waterfront. The river is what divides the north and south sides of the city, linked by high-speed ferry boats and bridges that define the skyline. The Erasmus Bridge has become the iconic symbol of Rotterdam. Erasmus University Rotterdam, which ranks among the top universities of the world (especially in the medical and economic sciences) and the Erasmus MC, the largest medical centre in the Netherlands.

Architecture and Innovation

Although much of the city centre was destroyed in the bombing during the Second World War, Rotterdam started vigorous reconstruction efforts as soon as the war ended. The city had the courage to make a radical break with the past and head in a whole new direction. It was this dramatic turning point that gives Rotterdam the contemporary look it has today: spacious in design, with daring modern architecture. Periods of innovative and daring architecture followed, with a particularly prominent peak just after the war. Today, Rotterdam is still notable for its modern, innovative architecture with spectacular, ultra-modern high-rise buildings on an ever evolving skyline.

Art, culture, dining and nightlife

Rotterdam has an exceptionally well developed cultural infrastructure encompassing all major art forms: music, the visual arts, film, photography, architecture, the theatre and ballet. These cultural activities are supported by first-rate museums, galleries, theatres, concert halls, art schools and other educational institutes. They offer a broad range of high-quality art and culture to surprise and delight any visitor to the city. Rotterdam is also a lively place in the evenings. The city boasts a wide range of cafés, restaurants and clubs. Cafés and bars can be found on virtually every street and range from traditional pubs to contemporary grand cafés. They are the perfect place to enjoy a cup of coffee or a beer, glass of wine or typical Dutch drinks, such as jenever. Rotterdam also has a lot to offer culinary-wise.

Brainfood

Meetings work better with the right nutrition

Healthy food served at carefully chosen times ensures that business meeting participants stay more focused. Fats and sugars play a key role in this. For example, 'fast sugars' provide an energy boost, but the latter are very short lived and are followed by a marked decrease in energy. 'Slow sugars' ensure the balanced uptake and release of energy leaving you energized for longer.

When it comes to nutrition, Postillion Hotels approaches people at business meetings like professional athletes. We are the first in the Netherlands to introduce the Brainfood concept which enables every meeting or gathering participants to be able to perform to the best of their abilities!

Brainfood

- ✓ Improves concentration
- ✓ Is full of healthy nutrients
- ✓ Reduces the after meal dip
- ✓ Good balance between energizers and modified meals
