CURTAINS UP AT SCANDIC GRAND CENTRAL'S VASATEATERN

After an intermission of several years, the red curtains at Vasateatern will open once again at Scandic Grand Central in September 2016. At this time, one of Stockholm's oldest private theaters, the foyer of which is already the hotel bistro, will finally be able to show itself again in its full splendor.

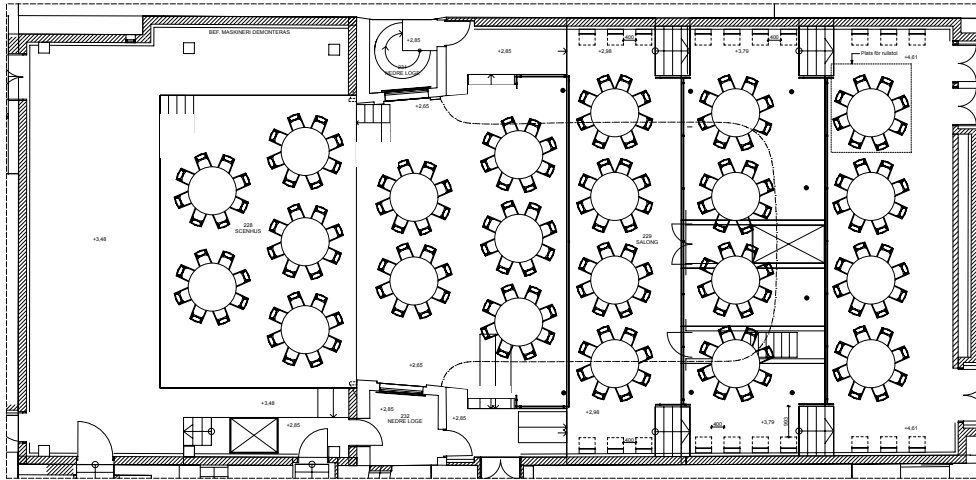

Vasateatern is magnificently located in the heart of Stockholm, offering possibilities for many types of events from concerts to movie premieres, conferences, seminars, lectures and cultural performances for up to 600-800 people. The stunning theater will be connected to Scandic Grand Central to create a one-of-a-kind hotel with 391 rooms in addition to the theater, restaurants and bars. Ideally located in the city's vibrant theater district, Scandic Grand Central is a welcome addition to the art, design, theater and musical offerings in the neighborhood. And as a historical venue, Vasateatern is certain to make any conference or event especially memorable.
